

SPECTRE OF DEATH AND DESTRUCTION RIDES ON COAST

Second Ship Sends Radio Plea For Aid; Aground In Bahamas

WORLD IS CONCERNED

Hope Rises However for Safe Transfer of Passengers From "Dixie"

The twin spectre of death and destruction rode the tempest "through the land of flowers" today while at sea two vessels, one carrying 350-odd passengers and crew, sought deliverance from a tropical hurricane that whirled ravages both from the Florida Strait to the Gulf of Mexico.

World-wide concern for the safety of passengers and crew of the S. S. Dixie, storm-ridden throughout the night on French Reef, awaiting the succor of nearby vessels, was diverted this morning by a radio plea for assistance from the British freighter Capulet, reported aground in the Bahamas, 65 miles east of Miami.

Inland in Florida the death toll rose slowly as meagre reports came in from the stricken region of the west coast border of the Gulf where a tropical storm was whipping northward. An accurate estimate of the dead was impossible pending the restoration of communication facilities, but early reports were the death toll might reach at least 100 with an undetermined number of injured.

Hope rose this morning for the safe transfer from the stricken Dixie still hard aground of all passengers and members of the crew with the abatement of the tempest. Several ships are riding nearby and present plans are to effect the transfer to the Dixie's sister ship, the steamship L'Ocident, for transportation to Miami. Efforts to determine the exact situation aboard the Capulet were not immediately successful. Coast Guard radio stations notified ships in the vicinity to proceed to her assistance. Meanwhile rescue efforts were intensified in the storm-lashed area inland.

MIAMI, Florida, Sept. 4—Work of removing the passengers from the Morgan liner "Dixie," which went aground on French Key yesterday morning, probably will get underway within an hour or so, it was revealed in radio advices picked up here just before 6 a. m. today.

MIAMI, Florida, Sept. 4—An official report from Miami's disaster chairman Leonard Thompson advised Red Cross headquarters here today 100 persons were killed and 35 injured in Tavernier, Florida, by the hurricane. "That is official only for one spot," officials at the headquarters of the relief agency said.

REVIEW OF THE NEWS OCCURRING IN AUGUST

Happenings During the Past Month Are Here Given

A GENERAL SUMMARY

By International News Service
As August passes into history, these happenings of the month seem most significant:

WASHINGTON

The longest session of Congress in 13 years, having passed the full administration program and appropriated more than 10 billion dollars to carry it out, adjourned at midnight the 26th.

In the closing hours the House was engaged in singing "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" while in the Senate Huey Long conducted a one-man filibuster which succeeded in preventing the passing of a deficiency bill, a relatively minor item.

This 74th Congress which convened January 3rd had passed the $4,880,000,000 Work-Relief Bill, the largest appropriation in our history; enacted social security legislation providing a method for old age pensions, retirement pensions and unemployment insurance; re-organized the entire banking structure headed by the Federal Reserve Board; passed the Wagner Bill outlying company unions; imposed the President's ("soak-the-rich") taxes but without the inheritance levy requested; made a law of the Guffey Bill setting up a "little NRA" for the coal industry; sent to the President his utility holding company bill including a modification of the disputed "death clause;" and by the neutrality act abandoned our historical claim to the freedom of the seas in wartime.

It had failed to pass the bonus over the President's veto, and its deliberation had been upset by the Supreme Court which declared the NRA unconstitutional and cast doubt on the constitutionality of much of the legislation pending.

On Sunday, August 25, the State Department released the text of a note which Ambassador Bullitt had delivered that day to the foreign office in Moscow. It was an "emphatic protest" against propaganda activities held to be in violation of the agreement which led to recognition, and it warned of "most serious consequences" if these did not end. The note was caused by the meeting of the Third Internationale, organization dedicated to world revolution, at Moscow with Stalin on the rostrum and American Communists in attendance. The Soviet government rejected the protest, declaring it has "never assumed any obligations concerning the Communist International."

IN THE NATION

Republicans who used to "have faith in Massachusetts" last month found hope in little Rhode Island. In a Congressional by-election fought on strictly national issues the Republican candidate won by 13,000 in a district which last year went Democratic by 21,000 votes. Democratic governors in Ohio and Illinois postponed Congressional by-elections which have been a further test of sentiment.

Two Oklahomans, Will Rogers and Wiley Post, landed in the latter's pontooned plane in a river in northernmost Alaska. Will chatted with the natives, asked the way to Point Barrow. Wiley tinkered with the motor. They took off and a minute later both were dead as the plane crashed in the stream and turned over. The news was a shock to the nation, the general topic of conversation for days.

General Hugh S. Johnson again found himself sitting on the lid of a steaming kettle. Now works-relief director for New York City, he was faced with a strike of skilled workmen of the building trades unions on his relief projects. The men demanded the "prevailing" instead of the "subsistence" wage and were backed in their stand by A. F. of L. union leaders. The entire work-relief program was threatened. The General announced that he would not back down.

The Record of the Supine Squander-and-Waste 74th Congress

(New York American, August 28, 1935)

The first session of the Seventy-Fourth Congress will go into history as the most revolutionary, the most INCOMPETENT, the most WASTEFUL and the most SUPINE that America has yet known.

If a name must be given it by future historians, it will be named the UNCONSTITUTIONAL CONGRESS.

The first session of the Seventy-Fourth Congress in one instance at least—the Guffey coal bill—was guilty, under the guidance and advice of the President, of deliberately passing a law that the best legal talent in Congress and out of Congress KNEW to be unconstitutional.

The first session of the Seventy-Fourth Congress was the dividing line between the INDIVIDUALISTIC-DEMOCRATIC-CONSTITUTIONAL America of Jefferson, Madison and Lincoln and the PREDATORY-SOCIALISTIC America of Roosevelt, Wallace, Tugwell and Frankfurter.

The one exception wherein Congress rose against un-American executive dictatorship was its rejection of President Roosevelt's plan to throw us into the sewage of international politics which bubbles at Geneva under the name of the League of Nations.

The defeat of the World Court resolution and the appropriations for the expansion of the Army and the air forces are the most meritorious acts of the session.

Most of the rest was SOCIALISTIC REVOLUTION in which "death sentences" were not only proposed, and partly passed, on public utilities but, on orders from the crown, death sentences or strangling fines were passed on SUCCESS, ABILITY, COMPETENCE, ENTERPRISE, INDIVIDUALISM and SELF-DEPENDENCE.

It is these virtues that have made America and Americans what we are: THE MODEL AND THE ENVY OF THE WORLD.

The Soak-the-Successful "tax" bill, the Guffey Coal Control Bill and the amendments to the AAA would alone brand the first session of the Seventy-Fourth Congress with the stamp UN-AMERICAN.

These measures are imbued with regulation, regimentation and totalitarianism in a country whose very breath is FREEDOM, VARIETY and PERSONAL ADVENTURE.

The first session of the Seventy-Fourth Congress was the most INCOMPETENT in our history because for patriotism it substituted POLITICS, for vision it substituted VOTEFISHING, for constitutional fealty it substituted DISLOYALTY TO AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS.

If the Seventy-Fourth Congress does not become known as the Unconstitutional Congress it may become known as the SQUANDER-AND-WASTE CONGRESS.

In eight months it jimmied nearly NINE THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS out of the taxpayers' pockets.

And remember well, ye hard-working American citizens, WHEN THE CROWN APPEARED BEFORE THE SO-CALLED CONGRESS WITH A BLANK CHECK ORDER ON THE TREASURY, YOUR "REPRESENTATIVES" IN THE CONGRESS SCRIBBLED IN "$4,880,000,000—AND NO QUESTIONS ASKED."

In this instance the obsequiousness of Congress almost reached the sublime and its stupidity bordered on the epical.

OPPOSE CONSTITUTION REVISION AT THIS TIME

Members of Chalfont Grange Explain Their Objections

TAX BURDEN TOO BIG

CHALFONT, Sept. 4—Due to the holiday and the inclemency of the weather, attendance at the meeting of the Chalfont Grange Monday evening was quite small.

During the roll call the members explained why they are opposed to the proposed change in the Constitution. They explained that it is not necessary, that it would provide too much power for the borrowing of money, that this is not the proper time to make any drastic changes and that the future generations will be burdened with taxes to be paid for the present day spending.

Harvey H. Baum gave a talk on the proposed revision to the Constitution. He stated that the borrowing power which might be increased is quite unnecessary and dangerous for the future. He claimed that representation is not equalized and this, he said, is one point that should be opposed by the farming element. He contended that the farmers have not been represented as well as the city people, and in addition, that legislators already have too much power and that the upkeep of the government is already too high and that it has resulted in an extremely heavy tax burden.

CARDS, COOKIE SALE

A card party and cookie sale will be conducted Monday evening next at the Travel Club Home, by the club. This card party is the first in a series, and the playing will start at eight o'clock. The public is invited. Chairwomen are Mrs. Thomas Scott and Mrs. Roy Tracy.

A classified ad will sell that piece of furniture that is no longer needed.

Croydon Fire Co. Chief, Linford K. Morgan, Dies

CROYDON, Sept. 4—Linford K. Morgan, chief of Croydon Fire Company, died suddenly at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. George Morrison, Philadelphia, yesterday, following a third stroke.

The late Mr. Morgan, who for the past 17 years had resided in this village, had been treasurer and chief of the local fire company for the past 16 years. For three years he was Bristol Township real estate assessor. He suffered two strokes within the past several months, but feeling much improved paid a visit to his daughter where he suffered the fatal attack yesterday. Mrs. Morgan died 3½ years ago; and survivors of Mr. Morgan include two daughters and two sons, all of Philadelphia.

The funeral will be held from the Morrison home, 2639 Emerald street, Philadelphia, Saturday, at two p. m.

MORRISVILLE SCHOOLS OPEN; ENROLLMENT BIG

Number of Pupils is Estimated at 1325 by School Authorities

BUILDINGS RENOVATED

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 4—The public schools opened for the new term this morning at nine o'clock with an estimated enrollment of 1325 pupils. There are about 625 pupils in the high school and 700 in the grades.

Two two-hour sessions will be held for the first three days and on Monday full time sessions will begin. A meeting of all teachers will be held this afternoon at 1.30 o'clock.

Enumeration of children who will begin this term has been completed and shows about 130 beginners. All pupils entering school must be vaccinated and present their birth certificate.

All the school buildings have been cleaned, repaired and placed in first class condition for the opening. New ceilings were placed in temporary buildings at Manor Park and Capitol View and the corridors at the main building at Manor Park were painted.

The case building has been repointed and some plastering done in the rooms. One class room in the building was painted and another room was set aside for the special class to be organized with the opening of the school.

In the high school new flooring has been placed and the corridor floors painted. A new drinking fountain has been placed in the cafeteria.

Additional improvements are planned by the school board as soon as the W. P. A. work is approved. These include: painting the outside of Summerseat, Robert Morris and William E. Case buildings; completing the grading around the Robert Morris and William E. Case buildings; lay gutters in the driveway; lay a walk from Hillcrest avenue to girls' entrance of Robert Morris building; lay curbs, gutters and sidewalks around the Robert Morris school plot.

Man Has Two Fractured Knees; Result of Crash

An Eddington man and his guest were injured in an automobile accident involving two cars, Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

The injured: Creighton Vandegrift, Eddington, slight injuries to leg, and shock.

Robert Guider, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., fracture of both knees.

Vandegrift was treated at the private hospital of Dr. J. Fred Wagner and Guider is still at that institution.

The accident occurred at Newport Terrace, when the car operated by Vandegrift, and one driven by Frank Clifford, Newportville, crashed. Those riding in the latter's car were shaken up. Patrolman Carfagno, South Langhorne barracks of the state highway patrol, investigated. No arrests were made.

Orders Munitions

London England, Sept. 4—Orders for $200,000 worth of ammunition and war supplies were placed abroad by Emperor Haile Selassie, of Ethiopia, today, it was stated in a Reuter dispatch. Forty Hotchkiss guns, gas masks and tents to a total value of $50,000 were ordered from the United States, the dispatch stated; while Switzerland was asked to supply $150,000 in artillery, field glasses and telescopes.

Cancels Oil Concessions

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4—The United States today washed its hands completely clean of the African oil deal which threatened to drag American interests directly into the midst of Europe's latest war threat.

Moving swiftly upon the urgent request of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the Standard Oil interests to which Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia had leased half his Kingdom in a desperate effort to save it from Italian conquest, agreed to cancel the concession. Abandonment of the concession which was prompted by the desire to remove the danger of this country's being entangled in a European political controversy which many observers fear may set Europe aflame once again, was being flashed half-way across the world to the war threatened capital of Addis Ababa, telling the Ethiopian Emperor in effect that American interests want none of its oil as long as it is tainted with the threat of war.

This word was dispatched by directors of the Standard Vacuum Oil Company, a subsidiary of the Socony Vacuum Oil Company and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. It was to the Standard Vacuum Oil Company that Emperor Selassie granted the concession which he hoped would bring the power of the United States to his side in his efforts to check the Italian conquest of his ancient Kingdom.

The candidate for County Treasurer, Edward Blester, Bensalem Township, said it would be his pleasure to do all he could for the Republican party, adding "I will work my hardest to fulfill the duties of this office in a manner gratifying to the public." Mr. Blester is a successful business man of many years' standing.

The chairman then called upon LeRoy Hillegas, Quakertown Borough, aspirant for the Republican nomination for Recorder of Deeds and a representative citizen of that community who said, "I pledge the people of Bucks County I will give them accuracy and reliability."

FOUR BEFORE COURT ON DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGE

Number of Divorces Are Also Granted at Miscellaneous
Session

FINES ARE IMPOSED

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 4—Four defendants were before the Bucks county court yesterday on charges of driving an automobile while drunk. A number of divorces were also granted.

Jackson Dunlap, of South Langhorne, a carpenter, pleaded guilty before Judge Calvin S. Boyer and was fined $200 and costs and directed to pay actual damages to the injured parties and was placed on probation for one year.

Dunlap was arrested by Corporal Evans, of the Oxford Valley sub-station, in Langhorne, after the Dunlap car had hit another car.

Ernest Albert, of Philadelphia, charged with driving while drunk, also pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs by Judge Boyer. Albert was arrested by Patrolman Cahalan on the night of May 31. Albert told the court that he had taken eight beers at a German club and then started for his home in Philadelphia.

Norman S. Shelly, of Quakertown, pleaded guilty to driving while drunk in a plea before Judge Hiram H. Keller, who sentenced him to pay the costs of prosecution within 90 days, and a prison sentence of three months was suspended on condition that the costs be paid.

Shelly is a music teacher, is married and has a family.

"Your case is a problem to me because you are a victim of a mania for liquor," Judge Keller remarked. "If I had the men here who gave you the first drink after you came out of the hospital, I would deal with them accordingly. You need help rather than punishment."

CANDIDATES MEET AND DISCUSS THE CAMPAIGN ISSUES

Gathering Held in Trades Hall Is Very Well Attended

Committeemen and Commit- teewomen from Lower Bucks Co. Present

"This ticket is the best balanced ticket ever offered by the Republicans of Bucks County. It is well chosen geographically with candidates possessing the highest qualifications, ability and of unquestioned integrity. Youth has been recognized and for the first time on any Republican ticket, the names of two women appear." This was the consensus of opinion at an enthusiastic meeting of Republican committeemen and committeewomen, of the lower section of Bucks County, held in Trades Hall, last night.

Clifford L. Anderson, president of the Republican Harmony Primary Campaign Committee called the meeting to have the candidates for county offices, who have been endorsed by the Harmony Committee meet the members of the Republican committee for the lower section of the county to become better acquainted with each other and to discuss some of the problems in connection with the primary campaign. Despite the inclemency of the weather the candidates turned out 100 percent and the committee members equally as well.

Mr. Anderson acted as chairman of the meeting and Earl L. Brown, Bristol, was elected to serve as secretary. The chairman, after briefly explaining the object of the meeting, proceeded to introduce the candidates.

Byron Crouthamel, Bedminster Township, candidate for sheriff, was the first to respond. Mr. Crouthamel who is a farmer and a member of the Republican Committee of Bedminster Township for over 20 years, said: "While I have not prepared any speech, I pledge myself, if elected, to fulfill the duties of the office."

Mahlon H. Rickert, Sellersville Borough, who is seeking the nomination for the office of Register of Wills, thanked the members of the committee for their invitation to be present saying, "If we stand together; work together and vote together Bucks County will come through with an old time Republican majority." Mr. Rickert is the proprietor of a general store in Sellersville and takes an active part in the civic and business life of the community and is a member of Sellersville Borough Council.

The candidate for County Treasurer, Edward Blester, Bensalem Township, said it would be his pleasure to do all he could for the Republican party, adding "I will work my hardest to fulfill the duties of this office in a manner gratifying to the public." Mr. Blester is a successful business man of many years' standing.

The chairman then called upon LeRoy Hillegas, Quakertown Borough, aspirant for the Republican nomination for Recorder of Deeds and a representative citizen of that community who said, "I pledge the people of Bucks County I will give them accuracy and reliability."

One of the two women candidates, Eleanor D. Worthington, Warwick Township, who seeks the nomination for Clerk of Orphans Court, was called upon next. Miss Worthington is noted for the progressive part she has always taken in civic affairs and told the audience she appreciated the warm reception she had been accorded by the men and that if she is elected she will do all she can to make her work successful.

Daniel R. Hendricks, Solebury Township, who is seeking the nomination for Clerk of Quarter Sessions, responded and declared he believed in efficiency and real ability in public servants.

The chairman, prefacing his introduction of the next candidate said, that "in order to avoid a halt in carrying on the administration program of the county commissioners, it had always been the policy of the Republicans of Bucks County to re-elect at least one commissioner, to carry on and that by his familiarity with the work, prevent the confusion, delay and expense which would naturally follow the election of three new commissioners. For this reason," the chairman stated, "coupled with the recognition of his honest, economic and very efficient administration I now call upon Norman Refsnider, Ricklandtown Borough, who seeks renomination as county commissioner."

"My past administration," Mr. Refsnider said, "as county commissioner is all I can boast of. If I am elected for a second term I shall continue to do the work on the same high plane as the commissioners have for the past four years."

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1935
THE INARTICULATE MANY
 Public-spirited persons grow almost apoplectic when they think of the indifference of voters. It is indeed a riddle, this question of how the nation is to be governed if a majority of citizens refuses to exercise the right of franchise.

The situation is but slightly better in the case of industrial government. Policyholders in the great mutual life insurance companies, and even shareholders in many corporations of national scope and size, bother little with elections, proxies and like annoying matters. The average stockholder has little inclination to take part in the direction of the company.

Clearly enough, the individual voter and the small stockholder no longer feel that their suffrages are of sufficient importance to register in the large and complex affairs of today. Perhaps in time this viewpoint may change, but until then a greater responsibility falls upon elected and appointed officials. A corporation director who is elected by only a portion of the stockholders—the others not voting—is thereby the more obligated to discharge his duties with a particularly keen sense of responsibility.

Many Americans sincerely hope that self-government may enjoy a revival or assume a new and vigorous form; but if it does not, public and corporate affairs will function as directors and highly placed officials sense the import of their trust.

PREDICTING 800 M. P. H. SPEED

Watching from the security of the housetops, the thoroughly alarmed populace was surprised to see crew and passengers on the first railroad train emerge alive after their adventurous journey. And when it was predicted that some day steam would carry a human cargo at the breakneck speed of 15 miles an hour there were timid souls who said the human body could not survive such speed.

How times have changed! Before his tragic death, Wiley Post casually remarked that airplanes would eventually attain a speed of 800 miles an hour and nobody doubted him enough to contradict him. Such things are taken for granted today.

Man has ascended 10 miles into the stratosphere and is preparing to climb still higher. If he fails at first, the public knows that it is merely a question of time before he succeeds.

The heavier-than-air flying machine was made possible by the internal combustion or gasoline engine. The gasoline engine may prove unequal to a speed of 800 miles an hour, but that will not stop the aeronautical engineers any more than Langley's early experiments were stopped because his first engine was too heavy. The gasoline motor will not be the last development in the science of locomotion.

 nounced that his policy would be to "sit tight." He did so and the strike petered out.

Then when persons on the relief rolls at $30 a month showed reluctance to take WPA jobs at $55 a month, the General announced they'd work or go to jail. More than 10,000 lined up for jobs in a day.

With almost every index of business in the ascendancy the stock market continued its six months rise until the day after the adjournment of congress which was marked by a sharp drop. Utilities suffered the worst losses as the realization spread that the compromise on the holding company bill differed very little from the "death clause" demanded by the President.

ABROAD

Nothing happened during the month to decrease the likelihood of an Ital-lan-Ethiopian war this fall while many things occurred which seemed to make it a certainty.

In London and the other capitals of Europe the strain on people and statesmen was terrific.

The British cabinet was called into a special meeting. Immediately after orders on several British warships were changed and they steamed into the Mediterranean. It was announced that the annual maneuvers of the British Mediterranean fleet would be held in the vicinity of the Suez canal. Special precautions were taken on the British isle of Malta just south of Sicily.

The only hope, a faint one, of averting war in Africa which daily seemed to involve more complications in Europe lay in the League meeting scheduled for September 4.

In the meantime thousands more Italian troops embarked for African duty and as if to serve notice on Hitler that he was not leaving his front door unguarded still thousands more of Italian troops began a series of war games on the Austrian front.

Plainly neither France nor England wants an African war. France fears the collapse of the League of Nations, the keystone of her scheme for security against German aggression. England fears the effect it will have on her millions of colored subjects.

In France Premier Laval decreed a 10% cut for the government's civil workers and regulations for lower costs of living. He overcame protests riots and strikes, saved the franc.

 James Hallikan, of Phila., arrested for drunken driving on the Lincoln Highway, pleaded guilty before Judge Boyer yesterday. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs.

Judge Boyer yesterday suspended sentence on John J. Schier, 21, of Stanton, N. J., charged with being armed with an offensive weapon, after the youth had pleaded guilty and Sidney Sutter, Superintendent of the Annapandale, N. J., State Reformatory, had taken the witness stand in Schier's behalf.

Schier took part in a hold-up at the Yankee Clipper Restaurant, Lincoln Point, with a man by the name of Marion, of Trenton, who is now serving a long sentence in Trenton. They had previously held up a place in New Jersey, and Schier was committed to the Annapandale institution, and yesterday his parole there expired.

"Out of the 4,000 boys who have been under my care, I can safely inform the Court that Schier is more deserving of leniency than any young man I have ever had with me," Sutter said to Judge Boyer, who gave the young man another chance by placing him on probation for five years and suspending sentence.

Divorces were granted as follows yesterday:

Cecelia M. McElroy, Perkasio, against Erwin McElroy, of Rockhill township; cause, desertion.

Mary Crouthamel, Danboro, against Russell Crouthamel, Philadelphia; cause, desertion.

Grace M. Little, Doylestown, against

Jerry Little, Doylestown; cause, cruel and barbarous treatment.

Gwendolyn V. Bachmann, Hulmeville, against Robert P. Bachmann, Trevoise; cause, cruel and barbarous treatment.

Florence E. Cockett, South Langhorne, against Christopher Cockett, South Langhorne; cause, cruel and barbarous treatment.

The most hypocritical piece of legislation—even with its compromises and clippings—on the part both of Congress and the Administration is the notorious Soak-the-Successful "tax" bill.

This was inspired by the Administration out of sheer spite because of what the Supreme Court, the Chambers of Commerce of the country and the heads of some great enterprises had dared to say about the Roosevelt Socialistic program.

The spirit that inspired that piece of legislation would have brought discredit on a convention of bootleggers.

This $250,000,000 "tax" bill should be called the MARQUE AND REPRISALS BILL.

The SUPINENESS of this session of Congress is the most shameful in the annals of American history.

To paraphrase Macaulay's words, this Congress should be named "The Reptile Congress," because it crawled upon its belly before place and power.

From the time it opened last January until it closed it was the RUBBER STAMP and DOOR-MAT of the President and his Cabinet members, with and without portfolios.

How low this body which the Constitution makes the MOST POWERFUL AND INDEPENDENT of the three branches of our Government sunk in the session is disclosed by the startling statement of Senator Pat Harrison, when he appeared as the spokesman of the President before the Senate Finance Committee when that committee had the Soak-the-Successful "tax" measure under consideration.

He said:

"WHETHER YOU LIKE IT OR NOT, YOUR POLITICAL FORTUNES ARE ENTIRELY IN THE HANDS OF THE PRESIDENT. IF YOU VOTE TO DISCREDIT ANY PART OF HIS PROGRAM YOU ARE VOTING AGAINST YOURSELVES."

Herein the White House gave notice for the first time in American history that Congress must vote as the dictator ORDERS or the dictator would see to it that self-respecting Congressmen died politically.

Behind this threat of Senator Harrison stood the nearly nine thousand million dollar slush fund — and no questions asked — that Congress was ordered to vote the President.

And that is the whole inner history of the first session of the Seventy-Fourth Congress:

Bribery, pork-barrel corruption, greed, graft, cowardice and disloyalty.

"CAST INTO EDEN"

BY HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS

Jerome Crain, young naval architect, and a beautiful society girl, named Linda, land on a strange island in the Caribbean after having fled from a quarantined yacht. Their skiff is mysteriously set adrift and their clothes stolen, yet there is no other sign of a living human, at first. Intermittently, however, blood-curdling cries come from the jungle. The mystery deepens with the finding of a well-kept though deserted plantation. They take refuge in a small house there. That night, Linda's slip is torn off her by some unseen creature and again the eerie scream is heard. Linda, frightened, insists that Jerome stay near her. "Night before last you couldn't bear the prospect of having me aboard the same yacht with you," he says, ironically, "and now you insist on having me in the same house."

CHAPTER XIII

Nothing happened to disturb their slumber unless it was a certain lack of comfort and then the early morning chill. The latter woke Jerome at dawn. He edged away without rousing Linda and went out into the fresh and fragrant morning.

In the hope of sighting some craft that might be within signaling distance, he went down the cool dark tunnel of the ravine to the beach. The day was breaking suddenly as it does in the tropics, and the wide still expanse of sea was serene but desolate.

Jerome felt that they should really camp on the other side of the island in the hope of attracting the attention of some passing vessel. The ship courses were not far. But they had no means of making a shelter and Linda would not give up the sanctuary of the house with unknown uncouth creatures prowling about.

He bathed, gathered a few shell fish, and went back up the little stream to the cool fresh beauty spot. As he came under the ledge he heard Linda's voice speaking in coaxing cajoling tones and thought she must be making friends with the macaw. The big brilliant bird had held himself aloof as if resenting their presence, like the terrifying beast of the night before, whatever it might be.

He clambered up and saw Linda sitting on the edge of the porch. What claimed his attention was a round little beast squatting on the turf four or five yards in front of her. It was partly turned away from him and at first glance he could not determine its species.

Linda was trying to coax it closer with lumps of sugar. As Jerome watched she tossed a lump toward the little animal that reached out a long arm and snatched it, then started to nibble and suck at it, never taking its eyes from her. Jerome, watching with only his head and shoulder above the ledge, saw then it was a little ape—a chimpanzee he thought.

As he continued to watch there came a rustle from a thick clump of bamboo. Jerome caught his breath. Another animal appeared. It was of the same species but larger. That would be the mother. For a moment it stood half crouching, long arms extended, and knuckles on the ground. Its eyes were flickering from Linda, who stiffened suddenly, to the little fellow in front of her. Linda did not move.

As if unable to overcome its greed and envy, the newcomer crossed the intervening space in a series of bounds and grabbed the piece of sugar from the smaller one. There was a brief scuffle and angry chattering of clucks and squeals.

Jerome thought he understood what had puzzled him. It looked as if the naturalist had imported some chimpanzees that had the freedom of the island and bred there. This would account for everything that could be carried off having been so carefully put away. But it did not account for the big creature of which they had caught a glimpse making off from the old ruined tower.

This mystery seemed then to be answered. Something came crashing through the denser growth to the right of the bamboos. There emerged a creature so huge and forbidding that Jerome's heart missed a beat and then began to pound. He saw that it was a full grown gorilla.

It stood for a moment nearly erect, watching Linda. And as she did not move it drew near the scuffling pair and dealt the larger a swinging cuff that knocked it to America but gorillas from Africa." Then suddenly as if she had made concession enough the mother gorilla let out a few resonant chatters that might have been "Good day and thanks," swung round, dealt her larger offspring another maternal cuff, and bounded off into the thicket carrying her baby, with the little boy leaping along beside her. As they disappeared Jerome hauled himself up and hurried to where Linda had sunk down on the porch. "My knees won't get me up," she said.

"My legs feel stuffed with cotton, too." "So that's the sort of neighbors we have." "Yes, it was the old man we saw yesterday in my shirt, darn him. It was he that paid us the call last one side. It then picked up the baby that straddled one hip and reached up for a pendulous breast.

There emerged a gorilla so huge and forbidding that Jerome's heart missed a beat. The monster stood watching Linda.

The whole performance was so grotesquely human that Jerome would have laughed if it had not been for the great size of the mother and the vexed, suspicious expression on the face she turned to Linda, precisely as if to say, "What do you mean by giving my baby sugar?"

Linda did not budge. She said in a placating tone, "Don't take it so hard, old girl. It won't hurt him. Have a piece yourself." and she tossed her a lump of sugar.

Jerome was thinking, "That settles it. This naturalist has imported not chimpanzees from South evening, thumping his chest before asking us, like the macaw, what the hell we wanted here."

"There may be a whole tribe of them," Linda said.

"Possibly. I suppose she has a baby every year and that mounts up. There's no telling how long they've been here."

"But, Jerry, aren't they terribly dangerous?"

"No. The director of the Washington Zoo told me once that tame gorillas are docile and good-natured."

"Gorillas? Is that what they are?"

"Must be. That lady was nearly six feet tall and weighed close to four hundred pounds. And her husband will be bigger still."

"Then he didn't have on your shirt."

"I guess that was the Crown Prince. I see now how easy it was for him to cram the bell clapper into my shoe."

A "bargain" is sometimes a bargain--

A GOOD many people look on August as their lucky month — and we don't mean those who spend it lying on the sand and taking in salt air.

We mean those people who have formed the habit of buying things when other people aren't . . . porch rugs and luggage and towels and lamps and all sorts of things, for use now and for use next season.

Of course they have learned that "bargains" are not always bargains. They know how to recognize quality and style and worth, how to find the strong points and how to avoid weaknesses. And much of their knowledge has come from the advertisements in this newspaper.

All of us follow advertising, but some people study it so thoroughly that they know exactly what they want and where to get it. They are the ones who find the real bargains. Their money buys more things and better things—in August and all through the year.

Candidates Meet And Discuss Campaign Issues

The chairman here called upon Dr. H. Clayton Moyer, Hilltown Township, who seeks the nomination for coroner. "There is another candidate," said Dr. Moyer, "in the field who is against me. And while I do not want to be critical, I must say that one of the reasons I am running for coroner is that I think 10 years is long enough for one man, my opponent, to hold an elective office."

Dr. Moyer is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania School of Animal Medicine and Surgery and also is a recognized educator of high ability. He served as principal of the Newville high school.

Minerva F. Martin, Doylestown Borough, the second woman candidate, was called to the platform. She is seeking the nomination for Director of the Poor and responded by asking for the support of the members of the committee giving the assurance that if elected she would give her best to the work. The satisfaction which has accrued to the citizenship of Bucks County in the upright administration of the office is regarded as one of the many reasons for the voters endorsement of her candidacy.

The last of the candidates to be introduced was Jesse G. Webster, Hulmeville Borough, who has declared himself for the nomination of Director of the Poor. Those who know him best say he possesses a character imbued with that sort of sympathy and understanding that should go a long way in solving the sad problems of our needy citizens.

Mr. Webster thanked the committee for its endorsement and assured the meeting that his heart would be in the work, if he was elected.

After thanking the candidates for their responses the chairman called upon Joseph R. Grundy and Senator Clarence J. Buckman, who both spoke in the same vein outlining the policies of the Republican party in Bucks County for the past generation. These speakers also explained the number of offices to be filled at the general election in November and gave the reasons for the Harmony Committee's endorsement of the candidates present at the meeting. Both speakers expressed the opinion the ticket as presented represents the highest type of candidates offered the Republican voters in Bucks County, selected in keeping with the traditions and policies as always observed by the Republican party.

ST. ANN'S BOUTS WILL BE STAGED TONIGHT

Weather permitting, the amateur boxing bouts will be held tonight in the St. Ann's outdoor arena, Wood and Franklin streets. The bouts were originally scheduled for Monday evening but were called off because of rain. In the event of rain today, Matchmaker Sammy Moffo announced that the fights will be held tomorrow night.

Ten bouts are carded for the evening's entertainment with the first bout scheduled to go on at 8.15 sharp. In eight of the ten contests, Bristol boys will be matched with opponents from Philadelphia. Officials of the Golden Glove Boxing Tournament of Philadelphia will be present with the hope of signing several Bristolians to participate in the annual boxing event of the Quaker City.

Three colored boys are included in the list of Bristol fighters. They are: Sammy Ross, Harry Davis, and Francis Wilson. Wilson is a heavy-weight and tips the scales at 180 pounds. He is the heaviest local to be signed for amateur boxing here and will fight an opponent from the East-Side Boxing Club of Kensington.

Others who will represent the borough in the ring are: Al Paris, undefeated in his two starts here; "Chet" Castor, with two victories and one defeat; Donato Sclarra, two wins and a defeat; Vince Della, one and one; and Sammy Calone, who recently was sanctioned by the Middle Atlantic Amateur Athletic Union.

The East Side Boxing Club will furnish most of the opposition for the local boys and this organization is out after Al Paris and Sclarra. These two youngsters have scored both their triumphs over members of the East Side Club and the visiting fighters will be seeking revenge. But the two Bristol youths are in fine shape and feel confident of a victory which will assure them of representing St. Ann's in the Golden Glove Tournament.

The reserved seats have all been sold and the fans are expected to gather early for the grandstand seats which go on sale at seven o'clock sharp. Any reserved seat not called for before 7.30 will be put on sale. Spectators are warned not to trespass on the property surrounding the St. Ann's club-house as much damage has been done here and any person caught will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

Baltimore Miss And A Bristol Man Are Engaged

The engagement of Miss Marie Theresa Antonelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Antonelli, 1219 N. Luzerne avenue, Baltimore, Md., to Louis Donofrio, son of Mrs. Vincenzo Donofrio, 918 Pond street, was announced Sunday at a party at the Antonelli home. The engagement was announced by Samuel Liberatore, Baltimore, during a dinner. Miss Antonelli was presented with a number of beautiful gifts. No date has been set for the wedding.

The guests: Mrs. Vincenzo Donofrio, Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Fandozzi, Mr. and Mrs. James Fandozzi, Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Juno, Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale DiLorenzo, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Comegna, Angelo Rago, Albert Carnavale, Bristol; James Costello, Burlington, N. Mrs. Franklin Wallin will take bouquets of flowers to Frankford tomorrow for distribution among the flowerless of Philadelphia. Those having floral donations are asked to call Mrs. Wallin, Bristol 3133.

Smoky City's Star Swatsmith

By BURNLEY

For the first time in five years, a National League swatsmith is threatening to crash the charmed circle of 400 hitters. Bill Terry, present pilot of the Giants, was the last hitter to reach the coveted mark, when he barely made the grade with a .401 average, and Bill was only the second National Leaguer in the past 37 years to turn the trick.

Rogers Hornsby passed the 400 mark three times during his career with the Cardinals, but for nearly four decades no one but the Itaj and Terry, among National Leaguers, has crossed that 400 strike.

Now, however, Pittsburgh puts forward "Arky" Vaughan as the new czar of the Frick loop's stick wielders. Arky is a real hitter, tabbed as the best batting stylist in the league by such a keen and unprejudiced judge as Branch Rickey, mastermind of the champion Cardinals.

Vaughan has on open stance at the plate, but as soon as the pitcher lets go, the Pirate plasterer brings his front foot around and leans on the horsehide with the smoothest swing of any topnotch National League slugger. Arky is not merely content to win the batting championship—he is determined to be the third man in the modern history of his league to pass that 400 mark; and at this writing he seems no worse than an even money shot to achieve his goal.

The poisonous Pirate hitsmith has been plain arsenic to opposing twirlers all season, and for the most of the current campaign he's batting average has topped .400. An idol in the Smoky City, Vaughan has already hit more home runs than any other Pirate wallpaper in baseball history, and even if he fails to crash the very select circle of 400 hitters, Pittsburgh fans are sure to hail him as the legitimate successor to the immortal Honus Wagner.

TO ARRANGE PLAY-OFF SERIES FOR EARLY DATE

The playoff game to decide the second half championship of the Lower Bucks County League will be played as soon as the Delaware River baseball series is over. Edgely and Hulmeville are deadlocked for the lead with eleven victories and three defeats. This decision was reached at a meeting of the circuit held last night in the office of D. Landreth Seed Company.

The Edgely diamond will be the scene of the warfare which will be the third time the clubs have attempted to play this contest. The first tilt ended in a 3-3 tie. The second was called at the beginning of the fifth because of darkness which caused the Hulmeville club to protest.

Representatives at the meeting were: Hulmeville, Howard Black and Leon Comly; Bristol A. A., John Mulholland; Hibernians, Neal McDevitt and James Dolan; Odd Fellows, Robert Sutton; and Edgely, Fred Hibbs and Jack Wolvin.

BRISTOL CLOWNS PLAY COLORED GIANTS HERE

Tonight, on Leedom's field, the Bristol Clowns will play their annual game. This year the Langhorne Colored Giants will be the opposing team with the game scheduled to begin at six o'clock sharp.

Towards the close of last season the clowns played the Bristol Cubans and were victorious and Chief Clown "Nigger" Brescia predicts another triumph for his jesters. Manager Brescia is uncertain as to whom he will start on the hill but states that "Nev" McGinley will see action in this position before the game is over.

The colored team formerly was a member of the Lower Bucks County circuit and at the present time is represented in the Tri-County League. Davis will do the pitching for the colored boys with Harry Thompson behind the plate.

31 BABES IN ONE BIRTH

HARRISBURG — (INS) — Thirty-one snakes—count 'em. It wasn't a case of seeing double when Chester L. Steigerwalt, amateur Harrisburg naturalist, counted that many additional snakes in his snake pen. His pet garter snake had given birth to 31 babies during the night.

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN IN NEW STATE ELEVEN

STATE COLLEGE, Sept. 4 — Although Penn State's football squad will be well fortified with veteran material when the players report for their initial workout on Monday, more than a usual amount of interest will be shown in the sophomore candidates, recruited from the strongest freshman team in the past decade.

Coach Bob Higgins is not willing to admit that some of his rugged sophomores have a place waiting for them in the Nittany varsity this year, but it is certain that not a single one of the fourteen veteran lettermen available will have an easy time withstanding the influx of able and ambitious new material.

Seventeen of the forty-four candidates who have been invited to participate in the pre-season drills were members of the 1934 freshman squad. Dan DeMarino, 195-pound tackle; Carl Waugaman, end, and Johnny Economos, guard, are generally considered as the sophomore linemen most likely to win first string positions. Fritz Owens, Walter Kominic, and Rabbit Wear, a diminutive but speedy quarterback, are the new backs who are expected to be most useful during the 1935 campaign.

The fact that Penn State will have on hand this year every member of last season's line with the exception of Kretzman at guard, gives the Nittany Lions an outlook which is far from discouraging. The varsity letter winners who are expected to report next week are: Frank Smith, Art Fry, and Bob Morini, ends; Captain Bob Weber and Roy Schuyler, tackles; Lou Barth, Frank Wismer, and Harry Latorre, guards; Charley Cherundolo and Jim O'Hara, centers; Tom Silvano, Frank O'Hara, Lefty Knapp, and Bill Cooper, backs.

Margiotti Must "Kill Off" Judge Musmanno

HARRISBURG, Sept. 4.—To Attorney General Margiotti has been assigned the unpleasant duty of "killing off" Judge Musmanno, whose Supreme Court judgeship aspirations are threatening the nomination of the Democratic bosses' choice, J. Edgar Barnes.

Margiotti has been plainly told that Musmanno is not only a threat to Barnes, but that even if he loses and yet runs up a considerable number of votes, every vote he gets will be charged against Margiotti, for they both draw whatever political strength they have from practically the same sources.

So "anything to beat Musmanno" has become Margiotti's war cry. Only now he is giving it in whispers, for he has found that Musmanno can handle his tongue quite as effectively as the Attorney General himself. Nevertheless Margiotti is very busy, and one of the means he has taken to bolster up strength for Barnes and hurt Musmanno is to appoint a huge number of Deputies Attorney General, at State expense, who understand that their jobs won't last long after the primaries unless their counties pile up majorities for Barnes.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, in a special dispatch from Harrisburg, says of Margiotti's prodigal spending of State funds:

"He is sowing the State with fee attorneys as a farmer sows a field in wheat."

"He is putting high priced special attorneys general in departments and bureaus that never had them before and whose legal business could be wadded in the ear of a speak-o-phone."

"He is making two jobs grow where one grew before, and in some cases, three for one."

"He has packed the Closed Banks Division of the State Banking Department with almost as many attorneys as were needed at peak time, two years ago."

"He has given his own law partner the best paying legal job in the State, next to his own, compensating him with a higher salary than any other Deputy Attorney General has had in years."

They talk at the Capitol of "Margiotti's army" of place-holders. And all this to help nominate Justice Barnes at public expense and to save Margiotti's own political face—for if it should happen that Musmanno would become over night only another Democratic small-potato, and he might even lose the Attorney Generalship, for Governor Earle is dead set on nominating Barnes.

WILL SELECT GROUNDS FOR RIVER LEAGUE GAME

The officials of the Delaware River League and the managers of the Hulmeville and Dolington teams will decide tonight as to where the second game of the playoff series will be played. The tilt was scheduled for Monday afternoon at Dolington, but rain caused the postponement. The third game was scheduled for Hulmeville, Saturday, but there most likely will be slight change in this arrangement.

The following players are eligible to participate in the series: Hulmeville—Morris Allison, John Hemp, Richard Hopkins, Howard Black, Stanley Carlen, Andy Pfaffenrath, Warren Bilger, Lawrence Devlin, William Eisenbrey, Wilson Holland, Isaac Watson, Leon Comly, Charles Afflerbach and William Leigh. Dolington—Kenneth Hill, Ben Paul, William Langson, Vince O'Hara, R. Lewellyn, C. Crum, J. Hessman, Garnet Snow, Edward Curry, Charles Miller, Richard Johnson, Chapple Matthews, William Griggs and Mike Gagliardi.

Electricity is cheap ... and much cheaper now than ever before. Many people will save enough on their electric bills through the $1,500,000 reduction in household electricity service costs effective on September 1st ... to use additional electricity for many jobs in their homes without increasing their monthly bills. And because this cheap electricity is available after comparatively small use, you can now employ it generously for extra lights, larger lamps and general all-around use ... Remember that:

ELECTRIC SERVICE Costs So Little ... Does So Much!

With the new low rates for household electric service, you can do more washings in an electric washer ... or cook electrically for several days ... or use an electric refrigerator for a week or more ... or keep your house clean with an electric cleaner for several weeks ... or run a radio four hours a day for numerous days ... or use an almost unbelievable amount of light ... or operate any other of your electrical conveniences additional times ...

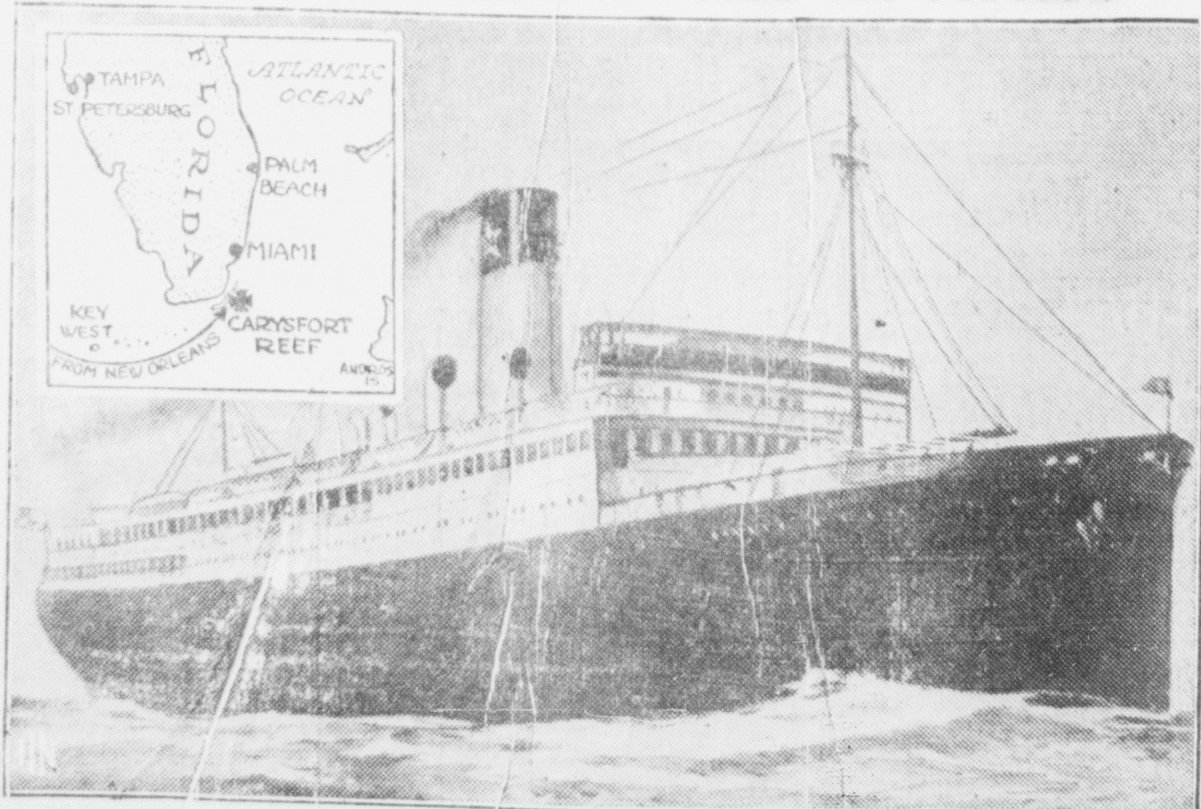

all without extra cost, depending on your monthly use of current.

We shall be happy to have you telephone to, or come in to see, Customer Service at any one of our offices to ask anything about these new rates and their possibilities for you individually for wider use of electric service in your home.
